Read and answer the following four questions about the text.

Life in Colonial times could be very difficult for many families. The right weapons or tools for a job made it little easier. A sickle is a tool with a sharp blade. It has a short, wooden handle. It was used to cut grass or grain. Sickles were very helpful when clearing tall grasses for a new home or garden. An ax, or axe, is another useful tool. Colonial axes had long wooden handles. The top of each axe was made out of hard silver. It could be used for chopping wood. If you wanted to build a cabin, you needed an axe. Pistols and rifles were just as important as the other tools. They were used to protect families from wild animals and bandits. Rifles were also used for hunting. They had long, wooden barrels. They were very heavy. Tools and weapons were important for getting food, staying safe, and making life easier. Life depended on good tools.

Milpa Alta is a region of twelve villages and towns to the south of Mexico City. In Milpa Alta, traditions are still very important and one of the most famous traditional events is a community meal. It takes place every Christmas and is called La Rejunta. More than a meal, it's feast, where about sixty thousand tamales and fifteen thousand litres of hot chocolate are made and consumed. Tamales are made from corn. The feast is offered to the people who go on the long walk to El Senor de Chalma about 80 kilometers away. It's an important event on the religious calendar for local people. The planning and organization of La Rejunta takes the whole year. Every year, different people are given the job of majordomo, which means they're responsible for organizing the meal. There's a waiting list for the opportunity to do this and currently the next available year is 2046. This year's majordomos are Virginia Meza Torres and her husband Fermin Lara Jimenez, who put their names on the list 14 years ago.

Read and answer the following four questions about the text.

It might seem that very few things can survive in the desert. Most plants and animals that you see in your town probably would not. But there are many different types of plants and animals that are perfectly suited to the hot, dry climate. In the desert, there is little water. The plants and animals that live in the desert have special features for living with little water. Plants like cactus have short leaves. These leaves trap and store water. The cactus also has spikes on its leaves. This to keep animals from taking its water. Animals that live in the desert are often nocturnal. This means they sleep during the day. They come out to eat at night when it is cool. Other animals, like the camel, are awake during the heat of the day. They have special eyelashes that keep the sand out of their noses. They can go for many days without drinking. Many animals that live in the desert can get all the water they need from the foods they eat.

117. Which definition is closer to the word "desert" according to the passage?

- a) an island where no humans live
- b) a situation or place considered dull and uninteresting
- c) uninhabited and desolate place in the forest
- d) a waterless, desolate area of land with little or no vegetation.

118. The author of the passage states that ...

- a) not all animals and plants can live in the desert
- b) hot, dry climate is perfect for all animals and plants
- c) all plants and animals can live waterless if they are in the desert
- d) most animals and plants can adapt to living in the desert easily

119. One can understand from the passage that spikes on the cactus leaves serve ...

- a) to keep water from evaporation
- b) to frighten other plants
- c) to let desert creatures admire them
- d) to protect the plant

120. What can be the best title for the passage?

- a) life in the desert
- b) plants adopted to desert life
- c) desert animals
- d) what are nocturnal animals?
