Read the text. Then choose the correct answer for each question below, according to the text (19-22).

Mark and Gerald are identical twins. Mirror images of each other, they also share many similarities in lifestyle. Mark hasn't ever been married, and Gerald hasn't either. Mark is a firefighter, and so is Gerald. Mark likes hunting, fishing, going to the beach, eating Chinese food, and watching John Wayne movies. Gerald does too.

These similarities might not be unusual in identical twins, except for one fact: Mark and Gerald were separated when they were five days old and grew up in different states with different families. Neither Mark nor Gerald knew that he had a twin. The two men found each other accidentally when they were thirty-one, and they discovered their almost identical lifestyles at that time.

Average people are fascinated by twins like Mark and Gerald. So are serious researchers. Identical twins share the same genes. Therefore, they offer researchers the chance to study the effect of genetic inheritance on disease, length of life, and personality.

The first flags were probably used in China. People flew flags in China over 4,000 years ago. Each part of the army had its own flag so the soldiers could see their leaders. Early flags were sticks of wood. They had pictures cut into the wood. Iran had metal flags about 3,000 years ago. Old Greek coins show pictures of flags. People in Rome also used flags over 2,000 years ago. People first made flags of cloth about 2,000 years ago. Those flags looked like today's flags. Flags are important at sea. Most ships fly their own country's flag and the flag of the country they are visiting. When a ship flies only its own flag, it is ready to fight. Every country now has a flag. Every U.S. state has a flag. Clubs, teams, and schools have flags. The Olympics has a flag. The Olympics flag has five rings of five colours on a white field. Each ring represents a continent.
